

RABBI BRESLER BECOMES HEAD OF SYNAGOGUES

Accepts Charge of Orthodox Congregation of B'nai Jacob and Beth Israel.

Rabbi Noah W. Bresler of Brooklyn, N. Y., has accepted call of the two orthodox Jewish congregations of this city and has taken up his duties as the religious leader in Rock Island of the B'nai Jacob synagogue, Ninth street and Sixth avenue, and Beth Israel, Third avenue and Twenty-second street.

Rabbi Bresler comes to Rock Island highly recommended. He has been the Jewish leader in Brooklyn, N. Y., several years, and previous to that time was in charge of the religious work in Memphis, Tenn. His native home is in Poland, but he came to America 18 years ago.

Coming to Rock Island recently in the interest of a national Jewish campaign, Rabbi Bresler was induced by the local congregations to consider a call to this city. The two synagogues have been without an official leader for the last two years, since the resignation of Rabbi David Zeiner, who accepted a charge in Baltimore, Md.

The Bresler family is expected to remove here shortly. Rabbi Bresler will conduct the services for Purim, which will be observed here next Monday evening and Tuesday, which commemorates the deliverance of the Jews from persecution by the Persian government through the efforts of Queen Esther, a Jewess.

REYNOLDS

At the Spencer Square.
The story of David and Goliath is given a modern counterpart in the First National attraction "Tollable David," by Richard Barthelmess, who in one of the most thrilling fight scenes ever depicted for the films, as a mere stripling of a youth, attacks and kills a veritable giant of the mountains, in the performance of his duty. "Tollable David" is being shown at the Spencer Square.

Barthelmess' big fight scene comes at the culmination of two encounters with villains, father and son, who are seeking to retain the government mail sack which is entrusted to his charge. David kills them both, but before the one dies he hurls a chair at the boy he has wounded and has his revenge in seeing the gun drop from the boy's grasp.

When Luke, another brother, the modern Goliath, steps into the scene, David is defenseless, with his left arm useless because of a bullet wound. Heedless of this, with the agility of a tiger he leaps upon his foe, and there ensues one of the most thrilling fights imaginable. It ends when David, with almost superhuman strength, hurls his huge adversary over his back and falling, in so doing he stumbles on his lost revolver.

At The Fort Armstrong.
A man hard as iron, who believes only in himself, a man who doesn't even know his own name, but who has the utmost confidence in his own powers, is depicted by William S. Hart in his new Paramount picture, "Traveling On," directed by Lumber Hillier, who also scenarized the drama from Mr. Hart's own story.

"J. B."—a cattle brand—is what the hero calls himself. He rides into town and makes everyone respect him. Even the itinerant preacher and his beautiful wife learn to feel that he is a man among men, but they cannot induce him to admit his belief in a higher power than himself.

How finally he comes to realize that man alone cannot always control human events, how love softens his heart and results in a great sacrifice—these things are told in a drama that is one of the most compelling ever shown on the screen.

Ethel Grey Terry is the wholesome and lovely heroine, and there are many other fine actors in the cast. Undoubtedly this is an ideal western drama of the type that has made Mr. Hart famous and endeared him to picture fans. The picture comes to the Fort Armstrong theatre for a season of three days commencing tomorrow.

At The Majestic.
Yesterday, the Majestic theatre opened its three day presentation of "The Way of a Maid," starring Elaine Hammerstein. "The Way of a Maid" is the mistaken identity type of photoplay, raised to the blue ribbon class.

Comedy is enthroned right at the beginning of this picture, when Nadia Castleton, returning from a fancy dress ball in her costume of apartment across the hall, with lady's maid, is charged by a tipsy young Croesus from the door of his hurry instructions for bath towels. In a spirit of adventure, Nadia accepts the challenge and supplies the towels. Then complications ensue.

Those in the supporting cast are Niles Welch, Diana Allen, Arthur Housman, Charles Brown, Helen Lindroth, Arthur Donaldson, William Evile and George Fawcett. William P. S. Earle directed the picture.

At the Rialto.
The superb acting of Dorothy Phillips in "Man, Woman, Marriage," Allen Holubar's famous Associated First National production, will be shown at the Rialto Thursday and Friday, has placed Miss Phillips so far in the forefront of the world's best cinema stars that there is little doubt that fandom will accord her tribute as the screen's greatest dramatic actress. Until the advent of Miss Phillips in independent productions movie fans have been prone to classify the screen stars for some particular type of acting. One has excelled in emotion, another in comedy and along various histrionic lines, but the sublime work of dainty Dorothy Phillips in a picture abounding with dramatic situations of all classifications has placed her in a class which embraces all the finer points accorded to her screen sisters.

CABLES DECISION.
Washington, March 8.—Acceptance of the plan submitted by Acting Secretary of State Fletcher for disposition of former German cables, by the powers to whom it was submitted, depends largely on the attitude of France, it was stated there is little doubt that fandum

SKIDDING FIRE TRUCK DAMAGED

The No. 5 hose company truck crashed into the curb at the corner of Eighth avenue and Eleventh street while in response to a fire call yesterday afternoon. The machine skidded and the left front wheel was smashed and the front axle bent. The axle has been straightened and a new special wheel was ordered from Chicago. It arrived at noon and the truck was ready for duty shortly afterward.

The firemen answered three calls yesterday. Only in one case was the fire a serious one.

A call was received at 3:20 in the afternoon to the home of Charles O. Morgan, 513 Twenty-third street. Chimney sparks had caused a roof fire. The blaze was extinguished with chemicals. Damage was estimated at $25.

A run was made at 12:25 yesterday noon to the home of Jacob Orshack, 739 Fourteenth-and-a-half street. Chimney sparks caused a small roof fire. Damage was nominal.

A false alarm was received from Twelfth avenue and Twentieth street.

RICH LEAD FIND.
Carterville, Mo., March 8.—A stratum of lead said to be one of the richest in the tri-state field, Oklahoma, Missouri and Kansas, was discovered south of this city, according to an announcement made yesterday. The ore was found at a depth of 70 feet.
